PETROL

Petrol, a sticky black liquid, is found underground and we extract it by making holes and pumping it out. Petrol reserves are diminishing and, in addition, petrol pollutes the environment, so should we consider stopping using it? Perhaps, but it's not so easy because it is too present in our daily lives.

To begin with, more than half the world's petrol is consumed as fuel for cars, planes and boats in its different varieties such as gasoline and kerosene because it's very easy to put petrol in a tank and it makes it possible for vehicles to run for a long time.

In addition, we need it to heat our houses and other buildings apart from factories and thermal plants, which need petrol to function. But this is not all: the products we put on our skin to make it softer or protect it are made with oil, water and active molecules and the product used to mix all these is obtained from petrol.

Chemists also depend on petrol molecules to obtain other molecules to combat illnesses. In addition, the artificial colouring and flavour of industrial food also come from combining petrol molecules. Finally, petrol is even necessary to make our clothes. Synthetic fabrics* are made with plastic, which also derives from this black liquid.

* Fabrics: teixits, roba.

Example:

0. a) Petrol has the consistency of a rock.
b) Petrol is black, but very similar to water.
c) Petrol is a liquid with a different consistency to water.
1. a) You need to change the surface of the earth to obtain petrol.
b) Petrol is sometimes found under the earth.
c) It is not always necessary to change the surface of the earth to obtain petrol in big quantities.
2. a) There is as much petrol as before.
b) There is less petrol than before.
c) Petrol will probably last forever.
3. a) More than 50% of the petrol reserves is consumed by vehicles.
b) Planes consume 50% of the world's petrol.
c) Vehicles consume almost half of the world's petrol.

 - a) Petrol is indirectly used in the cosmetic sector.
 - b) There are cosmetic products with a big quantity of petrol in them.
 - c) Petrol is rarely used in the cosmetic sector.

5.
 - a) Petrol and plastic are used to make medicines.
 - b) Petrol and plastic are used to modify the taste and appearance of food.
 - c) Petrol and plastic are necessary to make non-natural fabrics.

[2 punts: 1 punt per cada resposta correcta]

Us proposem algunes respostes, però també es considera correcta qualsevol altra que sigui coherent i demostrï la comprensió del text.

- a) What is the best alternative to gasoline?

I think / In my opinion / To my mind, the best alternative to gasoline is (electricity / sugar cane / gas...) because it contaminates less / because petrol reserves are diminishing and (electricity) can last much longer...

- b) What is better, plastic bags or cloth bags? Give your opinion.

I think plastic bags are better because if you buy something that has a strong smell, plastic hides this smell. In addition, plastic is better than cloth to carry liquids or wet things because liquids can't go through plastic.

I prefer cloth bags because they are recyclable and you can use them a lot of times. Cloth is more resistant than plastic and you can wash it. Moreover / In addition, cloth is better for the environment than plastic.
