The Largest Chocolate Sculpture

Qzina Specialty Foods broke the world record for the world's largest chocolate sculpture by building a replica of the ancient Mayan temple - the Kukulcan pyramid of Chichen Itza in Mexico. The sculpture, which weighs 8,273 kg, surpassed the previous record of 4,869 kg set in Italy in 2010.

The structure was exactly proportional to the original, and it was precisely one-thirtieth the size of the original with a base of 304 cm by 304 cm and a height of 182 cm. Altogether, the project took more than 400 hard hours of construction.

The Qzina Institute of Chocolate & Pastry made the delicious temple to celebrate its 30th anniversary - choosing the Mayan theme because of the crucial role the culture played in the origins of chocolate. The Mayans were one of the first civilizations to cultivate cacao trees and discover the true potential of the cocoa bean.

The pyramid was on display in 2012 from June 4 until December 21, when it was destroyed to coincide with the end of the Mayan calendar. It took some time for the method of destruction to be decided.
